

The graph displays the change in pupil area or diameter over time in seconds. Augmentation of the pupil size might be evidence that, due to the projected stimuli, more information is absorbed by the user. On the other hand, the decrease of the size suggests that the projected information is not absorbed.

